

Georgiadou Niki

Niki Georgiadou was born in Athens. In 1994 she graduated from the Law Department of the University of Athens. In 2001 she received her Doctoral Diploma on Labor Law from the Department of Law with a grade of "Excellent". She has been a lawyer since 1997, gradually promoted to the Athens Court of Appeal in 2001 and to the Supreme Court in 2007. She serves as an Assistant Professor at the Department of Management Science & Technology of the University of Patras with the subject "General Principles of Private Law". She has been teaching in Higher Education Institutions from 2003 to the present at the undergraduate level and since 2017 at the postgraduate level. She has participated in Research Programs. She has produced 32 peer-reviewed publications, authored two books and has had her work extensively cited. She has had DPO training in accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). Her research interests focus on labor relations within businesses and organizations, the digital operation of public administration and personal data. Finally, she is the Data Protection Officer (DPO) of the University of Patras, also Deputy Director of the Postgraduate Program "Education Management", Member of the Coordinating Committee of the Postgraduate Program "Digital Innovation and Administration" and Member of the Gender Equality Committee of the University of Patras.